

Outlaws is a song about two people choosing love despite what others think. The song was inspired by the doubts and assumptions people have made about my relationship, especially when it comes to my disability. Some people believed our relationship wouldn't last or that loving someone with a disability came with a set of instructions.