

“Afraid” is a heartfelt poem about the fear and vulnerability that can come with falling in love. It explores being afraid to open your heart and trust your feelings while realizing that love can also bring light, happiness, and healing.