

“Letting You Go” is an emotional poem about grief, loss, and the struggle to move forward after losing someone you love. It explores the pain of saying goodbye, living with regret, and trying to forgive yourself while holding onto the memories of someone who is gone.